THE INSTITUTE OF CHINESE STUDIES ACQUIRES ART COLLECTIONS

Since its foundation in October 1971, the Art Gallery of the Institute of Chinese Studies has mounted several large-scale loan exhibitions of academic and popular interest. Its development took a new turn recently through the acquisition of several important art collections.

The first of these acquisitions is the Jen Yu-wen Collection of paintings and calligraphy by Kwangtung artists. The collection comprises over thirteen hundred items of paintings and calligraphy by two hundred and fifty-three artists, covering the period from the late 16th century to the early part of the 20th century. The original owner, Mr. Jen Yu-wen, is a noted historian who is renowned for his mammoth work on the Tai-ping rebellion. This collection has been assembled by him over the past forty years and is the largest single personal collection of Kwangtung paintings and calligraphy. Many famous scholars and poets are among the artists represented in the collection.

The Jen Yu-wen Collection has been acquired by the Art Gallery through the generosity of a number of local collectors, both Chinese and European, who put up a substantial sum for the purchase of the collection.

Members of the Lee family, who donated the building of the Institute of Chinese Studies, also presented the Art Gallery with two rare items of antiquities. The first is a collection of nearly three hundred small early bronze seals. Most of them date from the Han period (about 200 B.C. – 200 A.D.) and before. The second is a rubbing made in the Sung period (11th – 12th century) of one of the most famous inscribed stone steles of the Han period. The original stone is now lost and there are only four rubbings of the Sung period which have survived to the present day.

In an effort to further increase the collection for the purpose of teaching and research, the University has set up a committee for donations to the Art Gallery.

The committee is headed by a leading collector, Mr. Ho Iu-kwong. The response to the drive has been very encouraging so far. Apart from contributions to the Acquisition Fund, donations from individuals include several 18th-century paintings of the Yangzhou school and a set of twelve early stone rubbings of the “Lan-t'ing Preface”, the most admired piece of Chinese calligraphy of all times. These rubbings have been in successive famous collections since the 12th century.

The Art Library of the Institute of Chinese Studies has also received donations of nearly one thousand volumes of reference books on Chinese art from Mr. Cheng Chi of Tokyo, and a complete set of the publications and slides of the National Palace Museum, Taipei, from Mr. Lin, a collector in Taipei.

An exhibition of all items donated to the Art Gallery will be held in the Art Gallery toward the end of the year.

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS IN THE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

The School of Education moved on 28th May from Kowloon into its temporary quarters at Chung Chi College. This move represents a step towards integration with all departments of the University with the hope that interchange of ideas among various disciplines may provide the impetus for educational innovations.

Following government's announcement of plans to expand and improve education in Hong Kong with particular emphasis on secondary education, the School of Education is stepping up its efforts to train an adequate number of qualified teachers and educational leaders for the community. Development plans for 1973-1974 include:

3) initiating for the first time in Hong Kong an undergraduate elective programme in Education which includes, in its first year of operation, courses in Introduction to Education and General Teaching Methods for second- and fourth-year students respectively from all faculties and departments; and
4) establishing a Centre for Educational Technology for research in the areas of Teaching Media, Teaching Systems, and Innovative Use of Technology in Education, for example, Educational Television, Computerized Teaching, and Programmed Learning.

The School of Education will press forward with these plans with the recruitment of more full-time staff and the acquisition of new equipment.
