GENERAL INFORMATION

The Chinese University of Hong Kong was incorporated in October 1963 under a Hong Kong Ordinance 'to establish a University with a federal constitution in which the principal language of instruction shall be Chinese'. It is a self-governing corporation drawing its income from grants made by the Hong Kong Government, fees and other sources.

History

The new University has its origin in three post-secondary Colleges, which came into being after the exodus into Hong Kong in 1949 of numbers of teachers, students and others from the mainland of China: New Asia College (founded 1949); Chung Chi College (founded 1951); and United College (founded 1956). In 1957 these three Colleges came together to form the Chinese Colleges Joint Council with the object of securing Government recognition of their efforts. In 1959 the progress being made gave promise of the realization in due course of a new university and Mr. J.S. Fulton (now Sir John Fulton, Vice-Chancellor of University of Sussex) was invited to visit Hong Kong and advise on general lines of development which the Colleges should pursue. In 1960 Government introduced post-secondary Colleges Grant Regulations which were designed to provide financial support to the three Colleges, and at the same time to ensure that such support would be related to the measures taken to raise and maintain standards at a higher level. In 1961, the Government appointed a "Chinese University Preparatory Committee" with the Hon. C.Y. Kwan as Chairman to advise on sites and buildings and any other general matters connected with the establishment of the University which may be referred to it". In the same year expert advisers from Britain and U.S. visited Hong Kong to advise the colleges on development to university level of their courses in arts, science and economics and business administration. Reports of these experts were encouraging, and in 1962 Government was able to appoint a commission to consider and determine whether, and how, a new Chinese university should be created. This commission (under the chairmanship of Mr. J.S. Fulton) visited Hong Kong in July 1962 and reported in February 1963. The report of the Fulton Commission recommended the establishment of a new university not later than September 30, 1963, and the award of the first degrees on examinations to be held in summer of 1964. The report was approved in principle by government on June 11, and on June 24 a Provisional Council was set up to deal with the establishment of the new university. The University Ordinance and Statutes were completed and enacted on September 10. A promise from Government of an extensive grant of land at Ma Liu Shui was made, and a University Architect was appointed to draw up a master plan of development. Temporary headquarters for the university was set up at the Hang Seng Bank Building in Kowloon. Before the appointment of Prof. Choh-Ming Li, University of California, as Vice-Chancellor in November, Dr. C.T. Yung, President of Chung Chi College, was appointed Pro-Vice-Chancellor in October. Prof. Choh-Ming Li came to Hong Kong in February to assume his post as Vice-Chancellor and Mr. H.T. Wu was appointed Registrar in June 1964, having served as Acting Registrar since the inauguration of the University.

Constitution

The Chinese University of Hong Kong Ordinance, 1963, provides for a federal university, in which the principal language of instruction shall be Chinese, incorporating as Foundation Colleges the three Colleges named above. Provision is made for a University Council, Senate and Convocation, as well as Boards of Studies and other bodies necessary to regulate the academic and administrative affairs of the three Colleges in a manner suitable to as institution of university status. Council is to consist of the Chairman; Vice-Chancellor; Pro-Vice-Chancellor; Treasurer; the Director of Education of the Hong Kong Government; one member elected from among its own members by the Board of Governors of each of the Colleges; the President, or, where applicable, the Acting-President of each of the Colleges; members of the Senate, equal in number to the number of the Colleges, elected by the Senate so that three shall be one member of the Academic Boards of each College; not more than four persons from universities or educational organizations outside Hong Kong nominated by Council; four persons nominated by the Chancellor; three persons elected by unofficial members of Legislative Council of Hong Kong; not more than three other persons normally resident in Hong Kong, elected by the Council; three members of Convocation elected by Convocation after a date appointed by the Council.
The Senate will consist of the Vice-Chancellor (Chairman); the Presidents of the Colleges; one Vice-President from each College; the Professors, the Directors of University Studies; six members (2 from each College) from among the Readers, Senior Lecturers and Recognized Lecturers of the University. (See Appendix A)

International Characters

To keep pace with the unique international status of Hong Kong, the Chinese University has a special role to play. International interest towards the University has been strong and genuine from the beginning and the University is aiming to be "not just a Chinese institution with British affiliation but as a Chinese institution of international character," as the Vice-Chancellor said in his inaugural message.

The University has formed three Advisory Boards having prominent scholars from all parts of the world as their members. (See Advisory Board on Academic Matters).

Also serving on the Council, the University has the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Sussex, the Director of the School of Oriental and African Studies of the University of London, the President of Harvard University and the President of the University of California as members.

The University is closely associated with the Inter-University Council for Higher Education Overseas in the United Kingdom. A programme of close affiliation with the University of California has begun and is expected to be developed into one comprehensive co-operation programme that will include general research efforts and exchange of scholars, faculties and students.

Meanwhile, ties already exist between some of the Foundation Colleges and the Yale-in-China Association, the United Board for Christian Higher Education in Asia, the Harvard-Yenching Institute, Princeton-in-China, Williams College, Dartmouth College, Wellesley College & Kyoto University.

Buildings and Lands

The University campus, which will eventually house several thousand students and staff, is to be built on the present barren hilltops in Ma Liu Shui in the New Territories adjoining the Chung Chi College. The site of the University is located about half way between Shatin and Taipo sandwiched between a modern highway on the high level and the Kowloon-Canton Railway on the seaward side.
The overall development plan has received the unanimous approval of the University Council in March, 1964.

The future campus building will be so grouped that the three Colleges will be sited around a University Headquarters complex. Consideration will be given to maintaining the Colleges' own individuality in architectural style while still aiming at an overall harmony.

The proposed University Headquarters complex will have two new colleges to the north on a higher level and Chung Chi College, at its present site, on lower ground to the south. It has easy access from the highway, with the central administrative building facing the highway providing a dignified appearance for visitors approaching from the Taipo Highway. United College will occupy the site near Taipo Road, while New Asia College will be facing the sea.

The University platform, alone, will have approximately 20 acres to house a central administration building, a student centre, a University hall, the Central Library, the central laboratory complex, and the Institutes of Education, Social Science and Natural Science. Ample space will be provided for future expansion.

A large flat area close to the railway is designated to be the University Sports Field. It will have sufficient space for three soccer fields, a 400-metre track and a number of tennis courts and basketball courts. A central sports building housing indoor games may be built on the solid ground west of the sports field.

According to the present schedule, it is hoped that arrangement may enable the University to commence building works on a few of its central buildings as soon as possible so that some of them may be completed by the end of 1966 or early 1967.

Finance.

The new University has as yet no endowments or funds of its own. The Colleges are in receipt of certain small endowments and grants from benefactors and other sources but, apart from fees, which are at a comparatively low level, the main source of recurrent income is the Government. The Fulton commission has estimated that the capital cost of producing the new buildings necessary for the development of the University may amount to as much as HK$72,000,000; it is hoped that a substantial proportion of this sum may be obtained from international foundations and other sources.
Institutes and Research

The University is not a mere association of the three Colleges, engaged mainly in undergraduate teaching. It is aiming to provide facilities for its faculty members to do research and to give training to postgraduates so as to serve directly the needs of the community and to enable faculty members to keep up with the latest developments in their own field and to contribute to it. Moreover, the University hopes to attract and to keep able scholars by having research facilities.

With respect to the humanities, there is the Institute of Advanced Chinese Studies and Research at New Asia College. The University is setting up two new Institutes. One is to be the Institute of Social Studies, which will include units in each areas as business and public administration, economics, geography, mass communication, modern Chinese studies, social survey, sociology, social welfare and world history. The other is to be the Institute of Science and Technology which will be engaged in both basic and applied research in such areas as biology, chemistry, physics and mathematics and statistics. These units will be working closely with industrial, commercial and communal interests of Hong Kong.

Faculties and Degrees

Admission to all Faculties and Colleges is conditional upon passing the Matriculation Examination of the University.

The University has at present three Faculties, namely, Arts, Science, and Commerce and Social Science, and the following Departments: Chinese Language & Literature, English Language and Literature, Fine Arts, Geography, History, Philosophy and Religious Education, Biology, Chemistry, Mathematics, Physics, Economics, Commerce, Business Administration, Sociology and Social Work. Entrants to any one of the above Faculties follow a four-year course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Commerce or Bachelor of Social Science. The University has the necessary powers to confer higher degrees. (See Appendix B)

Admission

The Matriculation Examination is designed primarily to select candidates of an approved standard for admission to first year courses of all Foundation Colleges (Chung Chi College, New Asia College and United College). It will be conducted according to these Regulations by the Matriculation Board of the University. No student shall be eligible to sit for the Matriculation Examination unless he has completed an approved six-year course in an approved secondary school and has passed the Hong Kong Chinese School Certificate Examination or the Hong Kong English School Certificate Examination or possesses an equivalent qualification recognised by the Board. (See Appendix A).

Inter-Collegiate Teaching

One aim of the University is to allow all students of the three Foundation Colleges to take the third- and fourth-year courses in Colleges other than their own, provided places are available and the students have satisfactory preparation in course prerequisites.

In the present academic year, a small number of courses have already been open to all students under the Intercollegiate Teaching Scheme. The scheme is expected to be expanded when the new campus is completed.

By carrying out such a scheme, the University is hoping to pool the special knowledge of the staff and facilities for the benefit of all the students of the University, and to reduce the teaching load of some members of the teaching staff so that they may be released for research work.

Library Facilities

The University Library for research and advanced studies is now under organization using the University Central Office as a temporary office. It will eventually be built in the new site inside the University compound.

The three College Libraries with a total collection of 224,000 volumes will be maintained and continued to be expanded within the Colleges.

The Library of Chung Chi College has a total of 74,000 volumes of which 52,500 are in Asian languages and 21,500 are in Western languages. It has 322 Chinese and English periodicals available for reading and reference.

With the help of the Yale-in-China Association, the Asia Foundation, and the Harvard-Yenching Institute, the Library of New Asia College has a total volume of 100,000. The library also has micro-film section on rare Chinese books and journals reproduced from the collections at the Library of Congress of the United States and the British Museum. Almost 80% of the collection are in Chinese.

The Library of United College has a total collection of 50,000 volumes, three-fourths of which are in Chinese. It has also 250 kinds of periodicals and scientific journals.

HISTORY

Chung Chi College was founded in October, 1951, by representatives of various Protestant Churches in Hong Kong.

The College had a very modest beginning with 63 students enrolled in the first year. It used borrowed and rented premises, first in the Cathedral hall and St. Paul's Co-ed, and later on Caine Road and in the newly-completed Bishop Hoare Memorial Building on Lower Albert Road. Expansion was made possible by financial help received from North America through the United Board for Christian Higher Education in Asia (U.B.C.H.E.A.) and the Trustees of Lingnan University, and from Britain through the Asia Christian Colleges Association (A.C.C.A.). Local individuals and firms also gave considerable support, and since 1959 the College has received substantial grants-in-aid from the Hong Kong Government.

In 1956, the College moved to its permanent site in the New Territories, in the beautiful Ma Liu Shui Valley. Government assisted this move with a grant of 10 acres of land and the building of a railway station. To allow more space for the growing number of buildings and for a playing field, this area has now been increased to nearly 70 acres partly by purchase of land and partly through Government grants.

The College was incorporated under an ordinance of the Hong Kong Government in 1955 with a Board of Governors as its supreme governing body. The College Council acts as the Board's executive committee and deals mainly with matters involving finance and buildings. Academic affairs are in the hands of the Academic Board, composed of departmental chairmen and other senior members of the staff, and of the Boards of the Faculties of Arts and of Science, which include all full-time members of the teaching departments and make recommendations to the Academic Board.

The departments of the Faculty of Arts are: Chinese Language and Literature, English Language and Literature, Economics and Business Administration, History and Geography, Sociology and Social Work, Religious Knowledge and Philosophy; and of the Faculty of Science: Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, Biology.
Buildings and Grounds

Construction at the Ma Liu Shui site began early in 1956, and the administration building, library, a classroom building, a science building, and a multipurpose hall with attached kitchen were completed in time for the College to move to its new premises in October of that year. In 1957 two blocks of staff flats, accommodating 8 families, were completed and the construction of two halls of residence (one for men and one for women) was begun. These were completed in 1958 and accommodated 230 students, but in 1960 they were extended to house an additional 102 students. A playing field, about 4 acres in extent, was constructed in 1958 and increased to 5 acres in 1961. A second science building and a third block of staff flats (with eight residential units) were completed in 1959.

The College Chapel and Student Centre, donated by the United Church of Canada in memory of Canadian missionaries who had worked in China, was completed and dedicated in April, 1962. Also in 1962 two new academic buildings were erected, one with money from the Hong Kong Government and the other with World Refugee year funds transmitted through the Government. A Clinic and Student Infirmary Building was officially opened on Founders’ Day, 1962. The funds for this building were given by World University Service, staff and students of the College, and local friends. In 1963 a Council room was added to the Administration Building.

A fourth block of staff flats was completed in the summer of 1963, and in the winter an additional storey was added above the reading room of the present Library. Work was begun on an additional block of the teaching buildings for Biology, and the Chemistry Department space was rearranged. Work was also started on a third student hostel and a fifth block of staff flats.

Academic Programme

The College selects students for its four-year course of study from among those who (1) a. have a Hong Kong Chinese School Certificate (or equivalent) or b. have a Hong Kong School Certificate and completed lower Form VI of an Anglo-Chinese secondary school; and (2) have passed the Matriculation Examination of the Chinese University of Hong Kong.

In the first two years a student spends mostly his time on language and general courses, being required to do one year of Chinese, two of English and four of Philosophy of Life. But from the start he is enrolled in a department and engaged in his specialist studies. In addition to his major programme, he may minor in a related field and take three papers out of nine therein in the final degree examination. The languages of instruction are Cantonese, Mandarin and English. Every regular student must attain some degree of competence in all three languages.

Students who have satisfactorily completed the course and fulfilled the requirements of the College are eligible to sit for the degree examination of the Chinese University of Hong Kong. Their standing in this examination will determine whether they will be awarded a university degree or a diploma.

Staff and Students

Chung Chi College in the academic year 1963/64 had a student enrolment of 607 of whom 360 were men and 247 were women. Most of the students were either born in Hong Kong or entered it in childhood or as migrants since 1949, but 68 came from Macao, Malaysia, Indonesia and other Southeast Asian countries. All were of Chinese race, except for one Japanese, one Korean and 3 Americans.

The teaching staff numbers 63 senior lecturers, lecturers and assistant lecturers, and 2 visiting professors. Of the regular staff 49 are full-time and 14 are part-time. In addition, there are 29 full-time tutors, demonstrators and technicians.

Admission, Expenses, Scholarships

The basic tuition, board and lodging fees at Chung Chi, at present, amount to HK$2,100. There are small additional fees for the Students' Union, athletics, Science laboratory use, etc., which, with local travel and miscellaneous expenses, bring the figure to between $2,300 and 2,800 depending upon the individual.

There are opportunities for work, and scholarships and bursaries are available for needy students or those making excellent grades. The College also has a loan fund. In 1963/64 over half of the students received partial scholarships or bursaries.

Extra - Curricular Activities

The Student's Union is to promote the general interests of the students, to organise their corporate activities, and to act as a recognized channel of communication between them and the College authorities.
It is responsible for the cultural, athletic and other extra-curricular activities, working through various societies, in particular the departmental societies, which play an active role in the life of the College.

There are in addition the following societies and clubs:—

The Student Christian Union co-ordinates religious and social welfare activities among the students, both on and off the campus; a Free School is conducted by the Student Christian Union for the benefit of the children of the neighbouring villages; the College Choir, the Music Club and the Photographic Club provide other forms of student activity.

The staff has a club of its own which meets periodically. Its activities are organised by four sub-committees: Religious, Cultural, Recreational and Welfare.

Chung Chi aims at a closer relationship between staff and students. It is hoped that, as more staff and students are housed within the College precincts, there will be increased participation in extra-curricular activities.

College Health Service

The College maintains a health service, available to students and staff without charge, directed by a physician and a nurse. The Clinic is open five mornings a week.

A medical examination is required of all students before registration in the first year and once a year thereafter. Students in residence receive two examinations during each academic year.

The Clinic and Infirmary Building is conveniently located about half way between the teaching buildings and student hostels.

The Chung Chi Theological Seminary

Affiliated to Chung Chi College is a Theological Seminary sponsored by the Churches of Hong Kong which are represented on the College Board. It offers a five-year course of training for graduates of recognized senior middle schools who are introduced by their church authorities. The present plan involves two levels of study. Those who have graduated from senior middle school, but do not have a Hong Kong School Leaving Certificate and have not passed the Chinese University Matriculation Examination, will take full Seminary work, including courses in the College, but their College courses will count only toward their Seminary requirements. Those who have passed the Matriculation Examination may take courses for credit in both Seminary and College. Later, the Seminary hopes to admit students with a University Degree who wish to take from one to three years of theological training at the graduate level.

Details of the curriculum and other matters may be secured from the College Registrar’s Office.

The teaching in the first two years is mainly in Chinese but a reasonable command of English is also essential. The Seminary is inter-denominational and ecumenical, adhering to the Scriptures and the central core of doctrine of the Historic Church, with provision for individual participating churches to provide for special training of their own students.

Publications

In addition to the College Calendar, the College publishes the following:

1. The Chung Chi Journal, issued twice a year, with scholarly articles in Chinese and English.
2. The Chung Chi Bulletin, issued three times a year, reporting College activities and news and views in general.
3. The Chinese Literary Review, published twice a year, reporting the results of research work done by the Department of Chinese Language and Literature.

7. The Student Bi-Weekly, published by the Student Union.
8. Chemistry Society Annual, published by the Chemistry Society once a year.

HISTORY

New Asia College was founded in 1949 by its President, Dr. Ch’ien Mu, and a small group of scholars from China. Their purpose was to preserve traditional Chinese culture and to balance it with Western learning that students might at once have a thorough knowledge of their cultural heritage and be prepared to cope with the modern world.

The College began humbly in improvised surroundings, but soon attracted support both locally and from overseas. Since 1954 it has had the cooperation and support of the Yale-in-China Association which had been active in educational development in China for many years. It has also received support from other educational institutions and foundations, notably the Harvard-Yenching Institute, The Asia Foundation and the Rockefeller Foundation. As a Grant College from 1959 to 1963, and now as a University College, it has received generous financial support from the Hong Kong Government since 1959. In 1953, with the help of The Asia Foundation, the Institute of Advanced Chinese Studies and Research was founded to pursue Chinese learning and research on a graduate level. The Institute is an integral part of the College.

Today the College has four large new buildings, grouped about a small campus that has space for social and recreational activities. The student body numbers around five hundred, one-third of which are women. There are dormitory facilities for both men and women. The teaching staff numbers over eighty, of which two-thirds are full-time. The College offers a four-year course in the Arts, Science and Commerce under the supervision of a Faculty of Arts, a Faculty of Science and a Faculty of Commerce. There is a well-developed programme of extra-curricular activities, cultural as well as social.

Future plans call for an expansion of enrolment to 640 students. A new building was completed in the spring of 1963. It includes an auditorium capable of seating 900 persons, several student recreational rooms, and a new dining hall.
GENERAL INFORMATION

The College offers a four-year undergraduate course in the Arts, Sciences and Commerce which are divided into the following faculties and departments:

Faculty of Arts: Department of Chinese Literature; Department of History; Department of Philosophy and Sociology; Department of English Language and Literature; Department of Fine Arts.

Faculty of Science: Department of Mathematics; Department of Physics; Department of Chemistry; Department of Biology.

Faculty of Commerce: Department of Economics; Department of Commerce; Department of Business Administration.

The Faculties of Arts and Science are liberal and non-technical in purpose, whereas that of Commerce aims at combining professional training with liberal education.

At the graduate level the College offers in its Institute of Advanced Chinese Studies and Research a two-year course in Chinese History Literature and Philosophy.

Requirements for Admission

Students from Hong Kong — An applicant must (1) be at least 17 years of age; (2) have completed six years of secondary education in an approved secondary school; (3) possess either a Chinese School Certificate or an English School Certificate issued by the Education Department of Hong Kong; and (4) have passed the Matriculation Examination conducted by the Chinese University of Hong Kong Matriculation Examination Board or have been exempted therefrom, and satisfy the departmental requirements.

An applicant from Southeast Asia, Taiwan, Macau or other territories outside Hong Kong must (1) be at least 17 years of age; (2) have completed six years of secondary education in an approved middle school; and (3) have passed the Matriculation Examination.
The College may, with the approval of the Matriculation Examination Board in special cases, admit students from outside Hong Kong on their scholastic record and exempt them from the Matriculation Examination, but in such cases a special entry test may be prescribed.

An applicant seeking admission as a transfer student must have completed a suitable course of satisfactory standard for at least one year in an approved post-secondary college or university, and must also have passed the Matriculation Examination. The College will place him in an appropriate class on the basis of his prior college work.

Majors and Minors

Majors — Students must choose one of the following as their major field of study: Chinese Literature, History, Philosophy, Sociology, English, Literature, Fine Arts, Economics, Commerce, Business Administration, Biology, Mathematics, Chemistry or Physics.

Minors — Most Departments require a minor. A student should with the advice of the Dean of Studies and the Head of his Department, choose a suitable subject as his minor.

Number of Units

A unit ordinarily represents attendance once a week at a lecture or recitation lasting fifty minutes. For language class and laboratory exercise, a unit will generally represent more than one fifty-minute period.

Normally, a first- or second-year students will have to take eighteen units, and a third- or fourth-year student sixteen units each term.

Student Organizations

In order to encourage students to engage in experiences of self-government, self-expression and participation in the decision making processes, a Student’s Union was established recently in the College. Beside the Student’s Union which represents the total student body, there are independent clubs of two types: those formed on a departmental basis, of which all students of a department are ipso facto members, and those on an entirely voluntary basis.
A. The Students' Union

All regular students of the College and the Research Institute are members of the Union. The Union is under the leadership of its President and its Cabinet which are elected popularly. They are directly responsible to a Council which is made up of two representatives from each Departmental Club. The Union is actively concerned with the welfare of the whole student body.

B. Departmental Clubs

At present there are twelve Departmental Clubs: Chinese, History, Economics, Commerce, Business Administration, English, Philosophy and Sociology, Fine Arts, Biology, Chemistry, Mathematics and Physics.

C. Voluntary Organizations

The following independent clubs are registered with the Dean of Students' Office: Nanyang (Overseas) Students Association, Opera Association, Music Club, Catholic Students Association, Christian Fellowship, Drama Club, Chess Club, Chinese Music Club, Forensic Society, New Asia Committee of World University Service, Photography Club, Body-Building Club and Fencing Club.

Student Dormitories

The College provides dormitories for students from overseas as well as local students who live far away. The men's dormitory is in the north wing and at present accommodates over 100 students. The women's dormitory is in the south wing and can accommodate 36 students. Each room is about 156 square feet in area; and in each dormitory there are sick-rooms for isolating communicative diseases.

The College operates a dining hall and canteen for the students and staff. It can accommodate over 270 persons at a sitting. The students elect their own committee which, with the College Health Committee, supervises the cleanliness and quality of the food. The dining hall serves inexpensive meals three times a day.

Light refreshment may be obtained in the canteen.
Scholarships and Bursaries

The New Asia College scholarship programme is designed both to provide education for students who would otherwise not be able to afford it, and to reward high academic achievement. To carry out these two purposes, New Asia has a variety of bursaries and scholarships. The former include partial tuition aid, or full tuition aid in return for some work. The latter include special scholarships ranging from $600 to $2,300 per year. They are donated by the College, the Hong Kong Government, foundations and charitable organizations both local and overseas, as well as by interested individuals. (For full details of scholarships and bursaries, write to the Registrar's Office of New Asia College.)

Health Programme

A medical examination by the College Physician and a chest x-ray are required of all students each summer before registration.

The facilities of the College Clinic are open to all students in the College. The Clinic is staffed by a resident trained nurse under the supervision of the College Physician. All medicines are supplied by the College and are dispensed in the Clinic.

To help support the programme, a student health fee of HK$5 is charged each year. This is payable at registration.

Publications

The College regularly publishes journals and scholarly works of its faculty members. In 1962-1963, the following publications were issued:

The New Asia Journal, a semi-annual in Chinese on Chinese studies, is published by the Institute of Advanced Chinese Studies and Research of the College with the financial assistance of the Harvard-Yenching Institute. Beginning in August 1955 when the first issue appeared, a total of ten issues has been published. It includes essays and dissertations by faculty members and students on Chinese history, literature, philosophy, education, society, nationalities in China, Chinese arts, religion and customs.
The New Asia Academic Annual is of a broader scope than The New Asia Journal. Written by faculty members and students, it consists mainly of articles which are divided into six main headings: philosophy, history, classical scholarship, literature, natural science and social science.

The Annual, which began in 1959, has had five issues with a sixth issue under preparation which will be published in September 1964.

The College also publishes work of its faculty members.

The Dean of Students’ Office publishes the New Asia Life, a fortnightly carrying academic articles and speeches as well as news and reports concerning life in the College.

Publications of Departmentae Clubs are listed below:

Social and Economic Studies, a semi-annual, by the Department of Economics.

New Asia Arts, an annual, by the Department of Fine Arts.

English Society Magazine, a semi-annual, by the Department of English Language and Literature.

New Asia Voice, annual collections of students’ poems, by the Department of Chinese Literature.

Annual Journal of the Department of Chinese Literature, by Chinese Department Club.

HISTORY

The United College of Hong Kong was founded in 1956 by the amalgamation of five "refugee" post-secondary colleges (namely Canton Overseas College, Kwang Hsia College, Wah Kiu College, Wen Hua College and Ping Jing College of Accountancy) by pooling their resources to provide higher education for both refugees and local students. It was incorporated under an Ordinance of the Hong Kong Government in 1957 with a Board of Trustees as its supreme governing body.

In the first three years of its existence, there were seven teaching Departments — four in the Department of Arts and three in the Department of Commerce. In 1959, a Department of Science was started. The College had its headquarters at 147, Caine Road, Hong Kong and a branch at 6, Farm Road Kowloon.

In February 1960, when the day section of the College became a Government-aided institution, a clear separation was made between the grant Day College and the private Evening School. From then on a new phase began and was marked by the reconstitution of the Board of Trustees and the College Council and the formation of an Academic Board, Boards of Faculties and three standing committees of the College Council, viz., the Finance Committee, the Sites and Buildings Committee and the Board of Provident Fund Trustees.

In September 1961 the College had to vacate its premises on Caine Road and was temporarily accommodated in the Helen Liang Memorial School until May 1962, when it moved into the present buildings on Bonham Road, formerly occupied by the Northcote Training College.

On 10th July, 1962, the Hon. Fung Ping-fan was elected Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the College to succeed Dr. the Hon. Sir Sik-nin Chau who resigned. In the same month Mr. T.C. Cheng, Chief Assistant Secretary for Chinese Affairs, accepted the Board of Trustees' offer of appointment as President-designate of the College. He assumed office in November 1962 and succeeded Dr. D.Y. Lin as President of the College when Dr. Lin retired in January 1963.
Academic Policy

The College provides a four-year course of studies leading to the Bachelor’s degree. The first two years of the course is of a non-specialized nature with a fairly broad foundation, with a view to enabling all students to make a study of Chinese Literature and to learn something of the history, culture and civilization of China; to appreciate, at the outset, the nature and interconnexion between the main branches of university studies, and to master a good working knowledge of English. In the third and fourth years, the students will specialize in the subjects they have selected. The educational system adopted is a balanced mixture of the well-tested features in the Chinese, British and American systems, the general organization and aims being derived in part from first degree courses given in Chinese and American universities and from the “General” type of degree courses given in British Universities.

The four-year programme is organized in two parts:

1. Two years of broad-based studies, including
   (a) Compulsory courses in Chinese with emphasis on language proficiency appreciation of literature and some study of the broad aspects of Chinese history & culture;
   (b) Compulsory courses in English, with emphasis on practical usage, especially reading for information; and
   (c) Courses in other subjects including preliminary general work in subjects which will be studied more intensively in the Third and Fourth years.

2. Two years of intensive study of a limited range of subjects for which some groundwork has been laid in the First and Second years.

Normally the medium of instruction is Chinese, but English reference and text books are used to a great extent, particularly in the Third and Fourth years.

Faculties

There are three Faculties in the College — Arts, Commerce and Science — with eleven Teaching Departments in all:

Faculty of Arts: Department of Chinese Literature; Department of English Language and Literature; Department of Sociology and Social Work; Department of History; Department of Geography.
Faculty of Commerce: Department of Economics; Department of Business Administration; Department of Accounting and Finance.

Faculty of Science: Department of Mathematics; Department of Physics; Department of Chemistry.

Each Faculty has a Dean who, subject to the direction of the Academic Board and of the Board of Faculty, is in general charge of affairs within the Faculty. Each Teaching Department has a Head nominated by the Dean of the relevant Faculty and approved by the Academic Board. The Head of a Teaching Department is responsible to the Faculty for the organization of teaching within his Department.

Finance

Like most of the Commonwealth universities, the new University and its Foundation Colleges depend almost entirely on public funds for financial support. In addition to capital and recurrent subsidies from the Hong Kong Government, it is gratifying to note that, as a result of a Fund-raising Campaign, which started in September 1963 and is still in progress, the College Endowment Fund now stands at more than $1,179,000. The income of the Fund is to be used for furthering the aims and objects of the College, including the advancement of higher education and the promotion of student welfare, such as the provision of scholarships and bursaries for needy students.

Publications

The regular publications of the College are as follows:

1. Calendar — published annually, giving comprehensive information on the College.

2. Prospectus — published annually, giving brief but essential information on the College for the reference of intending students.

3. College Journal — published once a year, with articles of academic interest written by faculty members.

4. United Bulletin — published at least twice a year, giving information of documentary and general interest, with contributions from staff and students.
Students

Nearly all of the students of the College were born in Hong Kong or have been resident in Hong Kong for many years. With the newly acquired accommodation in Eastern Street and Caine Lane, the present College premises will be adequate for 600 students.

A students' Union was inaugurated on 8th April, 1963. All students of the College are automatically members of the Union. Through the Union and student societies many extra-curricular activities are promoted, ranging from discussions on topics of academic interest to excursions, visits and social functions. These societies are as follows:

Miscellaneous Student Societies: Photographic Society, Catholic Society, Dramatic Society, Student Christian Fellowship.

Scholarships and Bursaries
